To the Secretary.

Dear Sir.

I am collecting biographies for the Biographical Cyclopaedia of American Women: a new work to be brought out in eight volumes. — Our Cyclopaedia is the first of its kind to segregate women achievements, giving students of American traditions & history an authentic record of women's part in the building of our nation,

as told in the lives of outstanding figures of all professions & walks of life - the biographical space is for sale, the editors reserving the right to reject many, without the temptation of commercialism as well as the privilege of admitting those women who are often the most desirable, but who can afford to pay nothing.

May I ask if you will help me to find out what women in your Society should be included in this work, which will be a permanent, dignified memorial to this period in American history. I shall very greatly appreciate such a courtesy.

Sincerely yours
Amélie Ripley Pumpelly

Dear Madam:

In response to your letter of August 9th, I beg to suggest the following names for your consideration:

Mrs. Laura Gardin Fraser
Mrs. Archer M. Huntington (Anna V. Hyatt)
Mrs. Gail Sherman Corbett
Miss Frances Grimes
Mrs. E. B. Longman Batchelder.

I have, of course, not included the names of such prominent individuals as Mrs. E. H. Harriman, whose activities would be brought to your attention through other mediums.

I trust that the above will give you the information you desire.

Very truly yours,

Secretary
